MAIN PROGRAM [45 minutes]:

Introduce the Love Jeopardy Bible Quiz. Feel free to choose whether or not to keep score, use individuals or groups or just throw the questions randomly across the congregation. The Quiz will be the first part of the program.

The English language is very general with the word love. You can use the same word to say "I love my wife" or "I love to eat bananas". Neither statement truly conveys the magnitude or kind of love you are expressing for them, in fact, if you say "I love my wife and I really love to eat bananas", it almost sounds like you have greater love for bananas.

Thankfully, the Bible was not originally written in English, so we have insights as to how the word "love" was used in its various contexts in the Bible. Today, we will be focusing on love in the the Greek language, and we will learn what words are used to express the different forms of love, what they mean and how they were used.

There 4 types of Love

The ancient Greeks had at least 8 words to represent the different types of love. For this program, we will stick to four of the most common, and the types you can observe in the Bible. These four are Eros, Storge, Philia, and Agape. Not all of these words are directly found in the Greek new testament, but understanding their meaning, makes it more clearer what the Author was trying to convey.

Phileō

The first type of love we will look at is Phileō. This defines an affectionate or kindly love, generally referred to as brotherly love. Examples can be found in Matthew 10:37, John 21:17, Titus 3:15. In the modern world, we often refer to this as platonic love.

Storge

"Storge is only used a few times. Below is one instance in the New Testament.

In Romans 12:10 "storge is used as part of a compound word with philos:" philostorgos "... is translated devoted or kindly affectionate. Phílos means "dear friend; actively, fond, friendly" and "storgé (cherishing one's kindred, especially parents or children); fond of natural relatives, i.e. fraternal towards fellow Christian." Wikipedia records that "storge means "love, affection" and "especially of parents and children"... It's the common or natural empathy, like that felt by parents for offspring... Rarely used in ancient works, and then almost exclusively as a descriptor of relationships within the family. [Source]

Eros

"Éros means "love, mostly of the sexual passion." The Modern Greek word "erotás" means "intimate love." Plato refined his own definition: Although eros is initially felt for a person, with contemplation it becomes an appreciation of the beauty within that person, or even becomes appreciation of beauty itself. Plato does not talk of physical attraction as a necessary part of love, hence the use of the word platonic to mean, "without physical attraction." [Ibid]

Agape

"The most common word for all forms of love in the New Testament is agape, agapao. This is one of the least common words in classical Greek, where it expresses, on the few occasions it occurs, that highest and noblest form of love which sees something infinitely precious in its object." (1)

Agape [noun] and agapao [verb] according to Vine's "are used in the New Testament

- (a) to describe the attitude of God toward His Son, John 17:26; the human race, generally, John 3:16;... and to such as believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, particularly, John 14:21
- (b) to convey His will to His children concerning their attitude one toward another, John 13:34, and toward all men, 1 Thessalonians 3:12 ...
- (c) to express the essential nature of God, 1 John 4:8." (2)

"Love can be known only from the actions it prompts. God's love is seen in the gift of His Son, 1 John 4:9, 10. [Ibid]
